

Are you considering a career in teaching?

Did you know that you can train to teach in a local school?

This school is a member of the Bishop's Stortford Educational Trust (BSET) SCITT and so can offer opportunities to train to teach, leading to Qualified Teacher Status (QTS). Training takes place in one of our local schools, primary or secondary, where there are great job prospects after training is complete.

What is School Centred Initial Teacher Training (SCITT)?

A SCITT is a network of schools that has been approved to run teacher training courses. SCITTs provide practical, hands-on teacher training, delivered by experienced, practising teachers based in their own school or a school in their network.

Successful completion of the SCITT courses leads to Qualified Teacher Status (QTS) and employment prospects are fantastic because trainees work in schools where there are vacancies. Many trainees prefer the SCITT route because they want to immediately immerse themselves in the work environment.

So, if you're thinking about becoming a teacher what better place to get your questions answered, obtain support and tailored advice? If you think you have an interest, we are keen to hear from you and we can also offer advice and school work experience for those who are exploring before committing.
